

IMAGINE :

Life has won. People live in cooperation and solidarity with all fellow creatures. All belong to the family of life, all live together in new communities. The old pattern of fear and violence no longer exists. It is completely replaced by the pattern of trust, solidarity and love. Worldwide people build their new centers, their self-sufficient communities and peace villages. We live in an immeasurable stream of love, compassion and connectedness. We unite in gratitude that this dream has come true.
